

Q What is her name?

A Mrs. Evanson who lives down town, would come up to get the meals.

Q In Lavalette?

A In Lavalatte; she would not get every meal; I always got my own breakfast and she would come up and get our midday meal and sometimes our evening meal; she would come up in the morning and wash up all the breakfast dishes and get our midday meal and then clear up the dishes after that and go home; and sometimes she came up again and got the evening meal, did the dishes and went home; but sometimes she would only get one meal for me when I was there alone and she would sometimes get the midday meal and then leave a cold supper for me where I could get it handily out of the ice box, and sometimes she would not get the midday meal. I would get a light lunch and she would come up and get me a nice supper.

Q Let me just interrupt you; what time was it on the 12th that your wife and her mother and sister went from Point Pleasant --

A To New York?

Q Yes.

A I do not remember the time.
